An Exciting Aquatic Contest at Norfolk Yesterday. THE POTOMACS FOULED NEAR THE FINISH BY THE

ELIZABETHS-OTHER RACES ROWED IN THE RAIN. The four-oared shell race between the Columbias, Potomac, of Washington, and Elizabeths, of Norfolk, yesterday, was the attraction that induced about a hundred of the members of the two local clubs to go down the river Thursday night on the George Leary to spend the Fourth in Norfolk. Early yesterday afternoon a large crowd collected at the finish of the course. The first race, two miles, which was called at the first race, two miles, which was called at half-past two o'clock, was between four-oared gig crews of longshoremen and sailors, the latter from the U. S. S. Franklin. The greater part of the race was rowed in a thunder shower. THE SHELL RACE. The shell race was the second event of the day, and in it the greatest interest centered. The Columbias and Potomacs were represented respectively by ther regular four-oared senior crews-Nute, Kintner, Kondrup and Wade, and McRae, Baker, Ryan and McKinney. The Elizabeths had almost entirely a new crew, but one of the men having rowed in the boat last year. Nevertheless, they were confident of winning, and the crew was freely backed for first place. Mr. J. C. Baker was the referee, and the judges at the start were Stinemetz for the Columbias; Cropley, Potomacs; and Callahan, Elizabeths; and at the firish, Dowalman, Columbias; Doxon, Potomacs; and Nolan, Elizabeths. It was originally intended that the race should be for two miles with a turn; but, as the rules of the national association were to be enforced, it was changed to a mile and a half straight away. The positions of the crews were: Columbias, Norfolk or northern shore; Potomacs, center; ton man;" and having thus rescued Georgetown and the Elizabeths, the Berkely or southern shore. At the word the Potomaes caught the water first, and the Columbias second, followed by the Elizabeths. The Elizabeths made a big spurt, and rapidly forged ahead, and at the half-mile had secured a lead of a length and a half over the others. The Potomacs had pushed their bow up even with the Columbias, and the two crews were rowing on even terms. The Columbias, having gone omewhat off their course, were last only by a trifle, with the Potomacs within a length of the leading crew and steering a perfect course. At the mile Wade had straigtened the Columbia boat and the crew was pulling splendidly, and their boat was bow and bow with the Fotomacs' boat. There was barely clear water between them and the leading Elizabeths. The latter crew rowed their terrific stroke of 44, but could not increase their lead. The Columbias were pulling thirty-eight, and the Potomacs forty-two. At the mile the relative positions of the boats were the same. All of the men realized that it was anybody's race, and put forth all to keep their lead, and could do no better. The Potomacs were pulling splendidly, and were gaining inch by inch on them. Wade called upon his men at this point (mile and a quarter) for a last effort, and they responded nobly. Their long, swinging stroke was quickened, and the advantage of their long reach was apparent. They pulled away from the Potomacs and drew up with the Elizabeths. The Potomacs were closing up on the Elizabeths. About one hundred yards to the finish, the Columbias being slightly in the lead, sabeths were seen to suddenly turn their boat directly across the Potomacs' bow, and a foul was the result. A Fourth of July Meeting Conducted on Old Fashioned Methods—The Declaration of Independence Read-Addresses by Ben: Perley Poore and

The Oldest Inhabitants met at noon in their rooms at the Corcoran building yesterday to renew their vows of patriotism, celebrate the glorious Fourth in an old fashioned way, and elect officers for the ensuing year. The room was decorated with festoons of patriotic bunting, and some of the members of the society wore red, white and blue rosettes over their white silk badges.

Among those present were the president, Major Jenkins Thomas; the secretary, Mr. Nicholas Callan, the recording secretary, Mr. J. Goldsborough Bruff; Young, Thos. A. McLaughlin, Edward Mankin and John Pettibone.

The report says: "It is not probable that the average number of our wards will be ninety; we commence the year with seventy-six, so that if the number should increase during some months to one hundred, our estimate of ninety would not be reached. The capacity of the institution is limited to ninety; more cannot be sheltered without unhealthy over-crowding." Among other recommenavenue of trees be planted on each side of the carriage road inside the boundaries of the grounds of the home, and that as iar as practicable the instant of the tretter of the carriage road inside the side of the carriage road in the carria mates of the institution aid in this work; that immediate steps be taken to properly fence the farm by planting hedges, &c.; and that a special committee be appointed for the purpose of laying before the Commissioners of the District the necessity of suitable school accommodations on our grounds, with the view of having the projected buildings completed, or the erection of a common school building, available for the inmates of the home and the whole neighborhood."

THE OLD GENTLEMEN CELEBRATE | What's the Matter With the Fountain? To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR:

What is the matter with the Cogswell fountain? Water warm, not refreshing, and last night the lights were not lit. Is the neglect a "movement" in favor of the saloons? The fountain at present seems to be a failure, and the steps around it don't seem to be very neat in appearance. July 4th.

DISAPPOINTED. The Jackson Democrats Elect Officers. The Jackson Democratic association at its meeting at Cosmopolitan Hall Thursday night elected the following officers: John E. Norris, president; Howard C. Clagett and Dr. H. H. Barker, vice presidents; Jesse B. Wilson, treasurer; N. Sardo, secretary; George T. Stewart, financial secretary; E. D. Wright, corresponding secretary. On motion of C. C. Frayser, the executive committee was directed to fire a salute for the northnees of the Chicago convention.

George Mattingly's Will. The will of the late George Mattingly was filed to-day. He bequeathes to his two widowed daughters, Clara V. Brown and Cordelia E. Affairs in West Washington. A NARROW ESCAPE.-The wife of Mr. Thomas J. Collins, the architect and builder, was sitting on the porch in front of her residence on 34th street, near the corner of P street, Thursday night about 11 o'clock with her infant child in her arms, when a boy on a porch near the corner of O street fired a pistol, and the ball took a small piece off the upper part of the lady's ear, making a painful wound. A slight change in the direction of the weapon might have resulted in the death of herself or babe. A CUTTING CASE .- Between 10 and 11 o'clock Thursday night Philip Contee and Wm. Wheeler became engaged in an affray on 32d street, near Grace street, when Wheeler cut Contee in the leg and arm. Dr. Kleinschmidt dressed the wound. Notes.-West Washington was unusually quiet yesterday. The officers made but eight arrests, and those for "drunk and disorderly."—The canal presented, in the morning and evening, a lively sight, there being five steamers plying between Georgetown and Cabin John Bridge and other points.—The Fourteenth building association held their regular monthly meeting last Thursday. THE NEW HAIR TONIC AND INVIGORATOR. This great and valuable discovery is, in many respects, superior to all others, promoting a luxuriant rowth and giving vitality and lost color to the hair. growth and giving vitality and lost color to the hair. It stimulates the weakened glands of the scale, whereby they are enabled to climinate that nourishment and support hereby supplied, which arrests the falling out of the hair, removes all dandruff and makes the hair grow long and gives it a youthful, soft appearance, and produces a thick head of hair on bald head. By continued use, as per directions, it gives a more cylindrical form to the middle shaft of the hair, thus removing the tendency which flattened hair has to curl and kink, so rigidly observable in the hair of persons of African descent, thus producing a wavy growth, so much desired by all European races. It contains no oil or minerals. Prepared by STEPHEN E. BARRON & CO.
